the fact that Coionel Robert Catlett, of Lexington Lodge, No. 68, has been elected to the position of Grand Inner Guard of the Grand Lodge of the State. The Lexington Lodge is one of the strongost in the State, both in numbers and the social standing of its members.

One day this week a new and novel society was at work on the road near Timber-Ridge church. The officers of the society were two well-known ladies of that section, the rank and file about twenty children, varying from 8 to 16 tyears. They called themselves the "Willing Workers" and were engaged in throwing stones and sticks from the freshly worked road. The assignment was for a five-mile section. The society received a nominal consideration in cash from a public-spirited citizen, and sothers of the party to carry the lunch and take up the exhausted. They were going through in a day they said, and they did. If all in all neighborhoods would thus lend a hand bad roads would soon be unheard of.
